SHOWING OFF

The Future of the Art and Design Graduate Degree Show

A conference organised by Kingston University London

Date: Tuesday 27 October 2015
Location: Design Museum London
Tickets: £30 including lunch and networking opportunities

Who should come? Around fifty creative stakeholders interested in the future of the graduate show, including educators, employers and graduates.

Why you should come: Join a key sector discussion exploring stakeholder ideas on graduate show futures.

The key content themes will include: the graduate show as assessment, as performance, as curated exhibition and as new technology showcase.

What is included: A day of networking, speakers, workshops, lunch, plus entrance to Design Museum exhibitions.
The Future of The Graduate Show conference
Design Museum 27th October 2015

10am  The History and Context of the Graduate Show
Gareth Williams, Design Curator, Writer and Lecturer

10.30am
Panel One: The Graduate Show as Assessment

Chair: Professor Catherine McDermott, Kingston University
Angela Partington, Associate Dean Faculty of Art, Design & Architecture, Kingston University
Professor Sally Wade, Director of Sheffield Institute of Arts at Sheffield Hallam University
Professor Susan Orr, Dean of Learning, Teaching and Enhancement, University of Arts London
Geoff Grandfield, Course Director BA Illustration & Animation, Kingston University
Helen Charman, Director of Learning and Research at Design Museum, London

11.30am
Panel Two: The Architecture of the Degree Show

Chair: Geoff Grandfield, Course Director BA Illustration & Animation, Kingston University
Pete Nencini, Senior Lecturer in Illustration, Norwich University of the Arts
Debbie Cook, Designer, illustrator and Tutor of Visual Communication, Royal College of Arts
Rebecca Davies, Course Director: Foundation Studies in Art & Design; Senior Lecturer: Graphic Design, Illustration, Animation, Kingston University
Martina Bramkamp, Professor of Animation Kassel School of Art Germany
Cathy Gale, Senior Lecturer BA (Hons) Graphic Design, Kingston University

12.30 Lunch

1.15 pm
Panel Three: What is the Future of the Graduate Fashion Show

Chair: Professor Elinor Renfrew, Associate Head of the Design School and Course director: Fashion, Kingston University
Caryn Franklin MBE, Fashion writer and broadcaster
Donna Loveday, Head of Curatorial, Design Museum London
Todd Lynn, Fashion designer
Nigel Luck, Course Director of MA Fashion Design Technology: Womenswear, University of Arts London

2.15pm Discussion Groups chaired by Joe Kerr RCA

4.30pm Closing of the conference with Simon Maidment, Head of the Design School, Kingston University
Tour of the Exhibitions with Donna Loveday